

DEAR CIRCE,

I have this bad habit of eating candy at school in the Forum. It seems to annoy the teacher very much. I also seem to find myself in a closet with other people once in a while. What should I do?

E.W.

DEAR E,

Next time why don't you give the teacher some of your candy, too, and get in your Brownie points. As for the closet, don't knock it.

DEAR CIRCE,

I have this terrible problem. I eat all the time. Day and night I eat. I even tried the diet published in this paper and I still weigh 185 pounds. But I can't give up. What shall I do?

K. H.

DEAR K TYPE H PERSON,

Are you sure you stuck to our diet? We usually don't receive any complaints about this diet for you know that dead men tell no tales, but if you did survive this, forget about dieting and get a job fighting in the Colosseum.

DEAR CIRCE,

I am 16 and my father is very rich. We have a beautiful house with 3 voice boxes. We recently got a brand new chariot. My brother is getting married very soon to a very nice girl. My older sister is getting along very well at the University. My younger sister is kind of a nut, but she gets along fairly well also. I do better than all three of them put together. What I want to know is how can I have problems like any other teenager?

M. M.

DEAR M,

Join clubs, don't study, stop combing your hair, and most of all join some fan clubs.

NORTHEAST ROMAN DEATHS

Barius Jamison looked up the shaft at the Science building yesterday to see if the elevator was coming down. It was. Age 24.

Martus Eus was killed late yesterday by a cart which ran over him, crushing his skull.

Tanus Ranus was killed in the championship chariot race as he rounded the far turn of the track on one wheel, yelling, "At last I have won the race!" I wonder which race he was talking about.

There was also the usual toll of peasants killed by the gladiators in the ring. This time it totalled 5.

Facius Remulus was found dead yesterday. He was bound to a rock on the bottom of Lake Wilmerus just outside of Rome. He is believed to have died of natural causes.

Are you tired, nervous, fidgety? Do you feel run down? Buy our new pamphlet. Just address your letter to the Marcus Casket and Undertakers Company on West Cemetery Drive.
